I subscribe to XM radio and when they started Instant Traffic and Weather, I was delighted to have access to this new feature. I can now listen to the weather and traffic AT ANY TIME without having to wait for the radio host to finish talking, a song to stop playing, or commercial to end like you would have to with regular radio. This is very convenient to listen to while travelling in the car when you are coming up to a large city (such as Chicago) and would like to know what the traffic or weather is before you arrive (this is beneficial in planning while driving). You wouldn't be able to do that with public radio since they only broadcast local traffic. I would like the FCC to reject the NAB's petition 04-160 so that I can continue receiving accurate and timely traffic and weather reports when I need them.
